Exhibition Day

my grandmother made this one 7, 1902

ALL THE MAMMAS WITH SMILING FACES,
ALL OF US CHILDREN LOOKING OUR BEST,
WHITE FROCKS AND RIBBONS, SUNSHINE AND ROSES,
ALL THE ROOM LIKE AN ARBOR DREST.

THREE OF US SPOKE A DIALOGUE FUNNY;
FOUR OF US DANCED A MINUET;
ROSY SAID THE PRETTIEST POEM,
A GREENAWAY CAP ON HER RINGLET'S SET

ALL OF US MARCHED AND DRILLED TOGETHER, SANG OUR CHORUSES ONE BY ONE,
ALL OF THE PEOPLE, LAUGHING, CLAPPING,
SEEMED TO THINK IT THE GREATEST FUN.

WE HAD THE BEST OF IT, THOUGH, WE CHILDREN, - PRACTICE IS NOTHING,
YOU KNOW, BUT PLAY, - AND NOW WE ARE SORRY TO THINK IT'S ALL OVER

THE WORK AND THE FUN
OF OUR WONDERFUL DAY!

THE BAND TRUMPER

Oh Rose-leaf! flushing when the South
Doth woo thee with a warm caress,
Thy dainty hues enchant me less
Than Hebe's rosebud cheek and mouth;

For nothing ever can repair
Thy tender blushes when they fade;
But Hebe, happy little maid!
Hath Ivory Soap to keep her fair.

Copyright 1896, by The Procter & Gamble Co., Cin'ti.

*Good morning!
Have you used
Pears' soap?*

There's a reason for the brightness
That this charming maid displays,
And she makes no secret of it
With her pretty winning ways;

It's a pleasantry she's fond of
As she throws the casement ope,
"Good Morning," cries she gaily,
"Have you also used Pears' Soap?"

"Only when I can get"
